Ensei

Zen masters and artists have been drawing their Ensei's (meaning “Zen Circle”) for centuries.
So what does Ensei represent? That can only be answered through our own reflection.
Each Ensei incense reflects the time of day: Cinnamon and Clove in the morning, Sandalwood in the afternoon, and the serenity of fine Jinko (aloeswood) in the evening.
Whether you are beginning your day or unwinding at night, you will find Ensei to be a wonderful aid in your reflection.

630 Ensei set with calla lily (purple)incense holder

641 Ensei set with little bear (grey)incense holder

This set comes with either a cute little bear, or pretty calla lily incense holder.

645 Ensei Sweet Aloeswood (50sticks--approx.)

648 Ensei Sandalwood (50sticks--approx.)

646 Ensei Spicy Aloeswood (50sticks--approx.)

649 Ensei Cinnamon & Clove (50sticks--approx.)

Family Style Gift Sets

These are gifts sets in a very traditional Japanese style, combining form with function. They make a beautiful presentation of multiple boxes, in an elegant paulownia box. This practical gift allows the recipient to share with other family members, friends, or co-workers.

Baieido's "Imagine" Series

Imagine bringing the old forward into the new. In Japanese it is called "Onko Chishin" and it is a very important concept in the artistic styling of Japan. It originates with Confucius and translates: "If a man keeps cherishing his old knowledge, so as continually to be acquiring new, he may be a teacher of others." This is the idea Baieido brings into their Imagine series of incense.

Wildflower

Imagine the smell of wildflowers after an evening shower. This floral bouquet was designed to bring you the aromas of the forest when the flowers scent is fresh and clean.

169	Wildflower (40 sticks with incense stand)

Sandalwood

Sandalwood is perhaps the most relaxing scent of all time. Traded from ancient times, it was transplanted from Indonesia to India where the best Sandalwood still grows today. It is used in virtually every tradition of incense making and in the finest French perfumes. Baieido uses only the highest quality Indian Sandalwood in making this incense.

Shu Koh Koku

Syukohkoku literally means Gathering of Incense Nations. This of course is a reference to the Silk Road which was forged to trade silk from China to the West. The Silk Road became the vehicle of Buddhist missionaries and the means of introducing Buddhism into China. It was these Buddhist monks that introduced incense into China, and with it created another commodity to be traded along the route -- incense ingredients.

-----	---

Baieido dates back to the Muromachi(1338-1573) period when the founder, Kakuemon Yamatoya, became a medicinal wholesaler of Japanese style incense in Sakai City, Japan. In 1657, the owner named himself "Jinkoya Sakubei" and specialized in selling Japanese incense and incense sticks. "Jinkoya"(Aloes wood trader) was a name peculiar to Sakai, they authorized only medicinal wholesalers who specialized in incense to use the name. Jinkoya Sakubei named his shop "Jinsaku" by abbreviating his name. We at Baieido continue to protect the secret formulas of our ancestral forefather Jinkoya Sakubei. It is the ardent desire of Baieido to provide the true sacred aromas of only the purest high quality incense to our customers through the methods treasured since our establishment in the year 1657.
